

David H. Perrin

David H. Perrin is Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Professor in the Department of Kinesiology in the School of Health and Human Performance at UNCG (where he served as Dean from 2001-2007). Perrin's career as an administrator began in 1995 in the Curry School of Education at the University of Virginia where he served as program area director of Kinesiology (then Health and Physical Education). In 1999, he was appointed Chair of the Department of Human Services at UVa. He received his BS in Physical Education from Castleton State College, MA in Athletic Training from Indiana State University, and PhD in Exercise Physiology from the University of Pittsburgh. Perrin was editor-in-chief of the Journal of Athletic Training for eight years (1996-2004) and founding editor of the Journal of Sport Rehabilitation (1990-1995). He is author of Isokinetic Exercise and Assessment and Athletic Taping and Bracing, 2nd Edition (with translations in Japanese, Greek, Chinese, Portuguese, Korean and French), editor of The Injured Athlete, Third Edition, and coauthor of Examination of Musculoskeletal Injuries and Research Methods in Athletic Training. He is also series editor of the 5-textbook Athletic Training Education Series. For 15 years he directed the graduate programs in Athletic Training (MEd) and Sports Medicine (PhD & EdD) at the University of Virginia. At UVa, Perrin was the Joe Gieck Professor of Sports Medicine, founded the Sports Medicine and Athletic Training Research Laboratory, and mentored over 50 students who received a doctoral degree in Sports Medicine. His research program, funded by the National Institutes of Health, focuses on anterior cruciate ligament injury risk factors in female athletes. He presently serves on the Advisory Committee on Interdisciplinary, Community-Based Linkages, Health Resources and Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. As a faculty member, he was recipient of a University of Virginia All-University Outstanding Teaching Award in 1997 and in 1998 received the Curry School of Education Foundation's Outstanding Professor Award. His professional awards from the National Athletic Trainers' Association include the Sayers "Bud" Miller Distinguished Educator Award in 1996, the Most Distinguished Athletic Trainer award in 1998, the William G. Clancy, Jr., M.D. Medal for Distinguished Athletic Training Research in 1999, and induction into the Hall of Fame in 2003. Among his honors are distinguished alumni awards from CSC, ISU, and Pitt, including induction into the Legacy Laureate Society at the University of Pittsburgh in 2008. Friends and former students have established the David H. Perrin Athletic Training and Sports Medicine Scholarship in the Curry School of Education Foundation at UVa, and the NATA Research and Education Foundation's Outstanding Dissertation Award given in his honor. Perrin is a Fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine and the American Academy of Kinesiology and Physical Education, and a Founding Board of Director of the American Kinesiology Association.
